QUALITATIVE RESEARCH GROUP

Starting in September, Danielle Williams (MRI PHCREd Program Coordinator) will be facilitating a Qualitative Research Group with the intention of providing an informal yet rigorous learning environment for qualitative researchers. This group is aimed at practitioners who are beginning or in the early stages of a qualitative research project (university course work or a work project), and is open to all practitioners.

Participating in a group like this can be a great way to link in with other researchers, and to engage in dialogue about qualitative research - in particular how we as researchers understand and use our chosen methods. It’s also a good opportunity to brainstorm with colleagues – sometimes it can be isolating when you are in the midst of data collection, analysis or writing up and you are working in an area where research is not the primary focus.

Please contact Danielle if you are interested in participating in this group.
